FemmePharma CEO Gerianne Tringali DiPiano Named One of “Pennsylvania’s Best 50 Women in Business”

Wayne, PA... Gerianne Tringali DiPiano, founder, president and CEO of FemmePharma Global Healthcare Inc., a women’s pharmaceutical company, was recently named one of “Pennsylvania’s Best 50 Women in Business” by Gov. Edward G. Rendell and five Pennsylvania business journals.

The award is given to women who are not only business leaders, but who are making valuable contributions to Pennsylvania’s future through their efforts to positively influence the state’s economic future. “Their substantive efforts are creating new opportunities for our residents, growing the state’s economy, and improving the quality of life in our communities,” said Gov. Rendell.

“I am thrilled to have been awarded this distinction and to be included in such an accomplished group of women,” Ms. Tringali DiPiano said. “FemmePharma has a team of incredibly talented individuals who are passionate about helping to bring about healing and improve the quality of life for women with diseases and conditions across the globe. Every time I meet a women with one of these conditions I am further encouraged to move forward with this mission and to alleviate women’s pain and suffering.”

Ms. Tringali DiPiano founded FemmePharma Global Healthcare in 1996 following nearly two decades of experience in medical affairs, marketing, new product development, and global licensing and business development with major pharmaceutical companies. FemmePharma is dedicated to developing products that improve women’s health with treatments for endometriosis, urinary incontinence, fibrocystic breast disease, HIV, dysfunctional uterine bleeding, and other conditions.

Through her company Ms. Tringali DiPiano has given hope to millions of women who were unsatisfied with the current efforts of large pharmaceutical companies. By going beyond the current fare of treatments for female disorders, she has opened up a new world for sufferers of endometriosis and is looking to similarly create hope for those suffering with chronic breast pain, urinary incontinence and other painful conditions.

FemmePharma recently opened up clinical trials at 12 sites across the U.S. for an innovative new treatment for chronic breast pain that could provide relief to more than 26 million women, without the unwanted side effects of current treatment options.

The Central Penn Business Journal, along with the Pennsylvania Department of Community and Economic Development and four other business journals honored these women at an awards reception on May 21 and award recipients will also be profiled in the Central Penn Business Journal, the Northeastern Pennsylvania Business Journal, the Eastern Pennsylvania Business Journal, the Pittsburgh Business Times and Pennsylvania Business Central.

An independent panel of judges selected the top 50 candidates based on dedication to business growth, professional and personal accomplishments, community involvement, and advocacy for women in business.

Pennsylvania's Best 50 Women In Business is a program of the Pennsylvania Department of Community and Economic Development and the Central Penn Business Journal, in conjunction with the Northeastern Pennsylvania Business Journal, the Eastern Pennsylvania Business Journal, the Pittsburgh Business Times and Pennsylvania Business Central and is sponsored by Citizens Bank, D&E Communications, Highmark, Inc., Millers Mutual Group, Messiah College, and WHP-TV and the new CW15.
